What the Oleo Bill Provides.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The oleomargarine bill as it passed the house, contains the following features: Better is defined to be a food product made exclusively from milk or cream or both, with or without common salt, and with or without additional coloring matter. Oleomargarine, as defined, is all substances made of oleomargarine, butterine, oil, lardine, suet and neutral, all hard extracts and tallow compounds, beef fat, suet, lard, lard oil, vegetable oil, annatto and other coloring matter in which fat and oil fat made in imitation or semblance of butter, or when so made, are calculated or intended to be sold as butter. Special taxes are imposed as follows: On manufacturers, $600; on wholesale dealers, $450; on retail dealers, $450. The existing revenue laws, so far as applicable, are made to apply to these special taxes. Penalties are imposed on any person who shall deal in oleomargarine without paying a special tax. Provision is made for the proper stamping and labeling of every package of oleomargarine. A tax of five cents a pound is imposed on all oleomargarine manufactured and sold and a penalty is prescribed for the purchase and sale of oleomargarine not branded or stamped according to law. A number of the sections of the bill are devoted to providing machinery to carry the law into effect.

Senate Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Senators Ingalls and Vest today had a personal encounter in the senate, resulting from a discussion of Ingalls' resolution of inquiry as to the authority of the secretary of the interior for issuing the order suspending entries of public lands under the law.

The oleomargarine bill was laid before the senate but its consideration was postponed for a few days.

The Ingalls resolution of inquiry into the cause of the burning by Sparks of his now famous order was agreed to. Senator Blair today reported favorably on the committee on labor an amendment to the sundry civil bill, proposing an appropriation of 100,000 Bland dollars to aid in the establishment of a school in Utah, under the direction of the Industrial Home association of Utah. The object of the amendment is stated to be to aid in the suppression of polygamy.

Maxwell Found Guilty.

St. Louis, June 5.—About noon the jury proceeded to take a ballot, after much arguing among obstinate members. The ballots were collected and counted by the foreman who found that there was inscribed upon each "guilty." A deputy sheriff was summoned and he was told that the jury had a communication to make to the court. The sheriff took the twelve men in charge and filed them to their seats, where they remained standing, while the foreman from a slip of paper read, "We, the jury, find the prisoner guilty of murder in the first degree as set forth in the indictment."

Sparks to be Investigated.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—It is declared likely that Commissioner Sparks' action in suspending the timber culture laws will be made the subject of a congressional inquiry.

A FEW FACTS.

Our Society Writer Indulges in Plain Truths.

LAS VEGAS, June 5.—It has long been the boast of western places and western people, that they ignored all kinds of ceremony. "No formality," they cry. This freedom from the conventional shackles with which society in eastern cities almost invariably hampers her devotees, imparts a racy and delightful character to Las Vegas entertainments, but their is such a thing as transcending the limits.

Mrs. Kindly gives an "evening" to a party of friends of both sexes, among them she includes Mr. Free-and-Easy, a great favorite with the ladies, chiefly because he is "the fashion." Mr. Free-and-Easy enjoys Mrs. Kindly's party, more than any one else. Unasked he assumes the role of master of ceremony, laughs long and consumedly at his own feeble wit, addresses all of the young ladies present by their Christian names without so much as a vestige of "humble," comments favorably and freely upon the refreshments offered, and makes himself as thoroughly at home as possible.

Mr. Free-and-Easy, however, neglects to pay a party call, because of his numerous other engagements which conflict with his duty in this particular. He meets Mrs. Kindly at a social dance, some two or three weeks subsequent, and has not even sufficient courtesy to request the favor of a quadrille.

We would not make dancing obligatory upon any of our gentlemen friends, but such flagrant violation of the commonest laws of politeness as we have been witnesses to, can only be compared to a ball costume composed of a dressing gown and embroidered slippers.

We believe the human family as a class to be charitably inclined, at least we have never seen anyone in our walk of life, who had not somewhere in his heart, a soft spot for his unfortunate brother.

The exercise of unlimited benevolence is reserved for those possessing unlimited means; not so discriminating, however, are our churches and societies for the public good.

Mr. Small-Means has a family to support. He holds a position as clerk in a store. On Monday morning while using his blandishments to induce Mrs. Portly to purchase a dress, that lady turns on him with a request, framed in the most seductive language, to buy a couple of tickets to some entertainment for the benefit of something or somebody.

Mr. Small-Means does not feel like making a statement of his financial standing to Mrs. Portly, who, to do her justice, is animated only by a laudable desire to dispose of her tickets.

She urges the matter. Small-Means, who is naturally chivalrous, cannot bear to inconvenience a lady, besides, it might alienate her "custom;" finally out of sheer desperation takes two.

On Tuesday there is a fire and Wednesday morning a subscription paper for the benefit of the sufferers, is circulated. Small-Means is again called upon to contribute his "mite."

Before the end of the week, some man dies and leaves a fairly destitute or Small-Means meets on the street a bare-foot child, whose forlorn condition touches him to the extent of a new pair of shoes. "For the sake of his own little ones," so, that by the time the monthly stipend comes in, he is again called upon to contribute his "mite."

Before the end of the week, some man dies and leaves a fairly destitute or Small-Means meets on the street a bare-foot child, whose forlorn condition touches him to the extent of a new pair of shoes. "For the sake of his own little ones," so, that by the time the monthly stipend comes in, he is again called upon to contribute his "mite."

All ye promoters of charities and workers in the great cause of good works, proceed with your enterprises. They are laudable and deserve encouragement, but exercise sufficient discrimination in your demands to avoid "robbing Peter to pay Paul," and above all things, have pity on your co-worker Small-Means.

PERSONAL.

Miss Kitty Gross, who has been, since her first introduction here, one of society's favorites, leaves on Thursday next for a six months' visit to St. Louis and other eastern points. Miss Gross will be accompanied by her cousin Mrs. Steigora. When we say that Miss Kitty will be missed greatly we are voicing the sentiment of her numerous friends and admirers.

Mr. C. C. Hall, the popular traveling man, who has made for himself such hosts of friends in our city, will, in a few days lead to the altar Miss Machette, the daughter of a Baptist minister of Booneville, Missouri. Miss Machette is both beautiful and accomplished. Miss May Dunlop, of our city, will officiate as one of the bridesmaids. Contrary to the expectations of his friends Mr. Hall will make Albuquerque his place of residence.

Dr. Henriques still remains very ill. While branding some cattle recently he was quite seriously injured. Dr. Tipton is in attendance, and in such excellent hands we may safely hope for our friend's speedy recovery.

Rev. James Fraser, pastor of the Presbyterian church, is still confined to his bed. Typhoid fever, a disease always difficult to handle, seems to have made such inroads on his constitution as to painfully retard his improvement.

Another engagement is whispered about. The "cat was let out of the bag" by one of the younger children. The "big ears of the little pitcher" should be borne in mind.

The publicity given to matters of the heart, in the present day, in fact, the publicity afforded everything makes existence a life in a show-case. We can only be thankful, that as yet science has discovered no probe for the realm of thought.

Society has been resting from its labors this week. No dances, no private parties, no amusement of any nature. Why not institute a Tennis club, an Archery club; anything to keep us from stagnating.

The "Montezuma Club" has been "house-cleaning." No one can escape the tyranny of the mop and broom. Mother Goose, we remember, recognized the necessity of "sweeping the cobwebs off the sky."
